

JOB SEEKERS IN LAKEWOOD NEED ASSISTANCE

Job loss is the biggest issue currently facing our area. Many of us work with and know of families and individuals who are struggling with job loss and we want to help. However, we don't always know where or have the extra time to track down low-cost or free resources.

The Lakewood Family Collaborative is partnering with the Cuyahoga County Library system and the Lakewood Public Library for an evening workshop designed to help us become informed about the free Career and Job Seeker services available in our area. It is also an opportunity for job seekers, looking for a new job or trying to make a career change, to learn about services to help them in the job-seeking process.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND THE WORKSHOP?

- Anyone who is looking for a job or wanting to make a career change.
- Anyone who works with or wants to help job seekers.

WHY YOU SHOULD ATTEND THE WORKSHOP?

- Attendees to the workshop will receive information that will help them immediately, and will be able to register for services.
- Job Seekers will be able to ask a professional career counselor about the job searching process.
- A great opportunity to network and meet others interested in improving their job search.
- The event is free and open to all job seekers and those who want to help job seekers.

We will be joined by Jim Hansen, Career Counselor and Job Club Facilitator with the Cuyahoga County Libraries, and Amy Kloss, Instructor for the Lakewood Public Library Technology Department who will help us learn how to use these resources and increase our understanding about the current job market.
